Occasionally use your pointer finger to scan words when you read. This will help your child to associate print with the spoken word.